Calvary Church Group Gives Reception For Lindgrens

Fifteen years of happy married life, devoted by the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Lindgren to service for others, were marked Wednesday night when a reception in their honor was given in the club house following mid-week services of Calvary church, of which the Rev. Mr. Lindgren is pastor.

During the program felicitations were extended by representatives of the church and Sunday school departments. Greetings were offered by members of the radio audience of the church, several of whom were present for the occasion. Letters of congratulations were sent by others, including Mrs. Julia Goss of Orange, who, within the next three months, will celebrate her 100th birthday.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lindgren were presented with crystal gifts including a bowl, candlesticks and table mirror. Punch, wedding cake and cookies were served, with Mrs. Elwin Gammell and Mrs. George Lackaye presiding at the punch bowls.

A surprise feature of the evening was the presence of Dr. Louis Talbot, pastor of the Open Door, who officiated at the Lindgren wedding 15 years ago. He was accompanied by Mrs. Talbot and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Nyman, Los Angeles. Dr. Talbot gave the address at the mid-week service which preceded the reception.

The Woman's society, of which Mrs. William Breckenridge is president, had planned the affair. Mrs. Lewis Gall was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

True Happy Ending is Established After Accident on Honeymoon

Returning from an extended honeymoon trip as far east as Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hickman have given to their many friends, the account of their marriage in Phoenix, Ariz., in early July, and various features of the trip which immediately followed.

Mrs. Hickman was Mrs. Ida B. Kimball, 1010 North Van Ness avenue, and was wedded to Mr. Hickman, well known Tustin rancher, in Phoenix by the pastor of Central Christian church of that city, the Rev. Robert E. L. Moore. This was on July 8, just a few days before the departure of Mrs. Kimball, possibly on a visit to her sister in Oklahoma.

The Oklahoma visit with Mrs. George W. Black, materialized in due course of time, but not until after the new Mr. and Mrs. Hickman had their honeymoon unpleasantly interrupted by an automobile accident near Quemado, New Mexico. They were forced from the road and their car was overturned, an accident in which each incurred painful bruises. Mrs. Hickman sustained injuries to her back that necessitated her remaining in the hospital at Quemado for nine days before she was able to resume traveling.

After an extended stay in the Black home, Mr. and Mrs. Hickman continued their trip to Napae, Nebr., former home of Mr. Hickman, and where he has many relatives and friends who entertained them.

Living temporarily in Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Hickman will make their home on the former's ranch and after October 1 will receive their friends at 440 West Main street, Tustin.

Bridge Players Enjoy Evening Session

Hostess to members of her bridge club, Mrs. Harry LeBarb entertained Thursday night in her home at 1225 South Parton st. Mrs. Willard Swarthout and Mrs. Harold Carnahan were awarded first and second prizes for their success in the evening's play.

In serving a salad and sandwich course at the card tables later, Mrs. LeBarb used green glassware and centerpieces of vari-colored sinias.

Guests were Mesdames James Dickson, Mrs. Mercer, Oscar Carothers, Bryan Ruddick, Clifford Cole, Willard Swarthout and Harold Carnahan.

November Bride-elect Is Complimented by Party Hostesses

Complimenting Miss Helen Mangold, who recently revealed plans for her November wedding to Egon Gardner of the U. S. S. Lexington, was a delightful party at which Miss Billie Muffelman and Miss Clara Ehlen of Orange, this week assembled a group of friends at El Favorito.

Miss Mangold is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mangold, 1701 East Seventeenth street. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner of Stonewall, Texas. In planning the party for the bride-elect, Miss Muffelman and Miss Ehlen took into consideration the gray red and white appointments of the main supper room at El Favorito, and made their decorative scheme to correspond. Flowers in red and white were used and the colors again were uppermost in a bright Chinese umbrella suspended in the center of the room to conceal shower gifts for the honoree.

Tied with red and white tissues and ribbons were prizes in bridge which were awarded Miss Ruth Boose and Miss Lydia Weick, holders of high and low scores. The shower motif of tiny Chinese umbrellas appeared at the refreshment hour as special adornment of the nut cups. The late supper menu was served to the accompaniment of table appointments in the chosen colors.

Miss Ehlen and Miss Muffelman included on their guest list with their honoree, Miss Mangold, her mother and sister, Mrs. John Mangold and Mrs. Victor Corona, their own mothers, Mrs. Henry Ehlen and Mrs. W. F. Muffelman, Mesdames Bessie Kemp, Walter Duker, Henry Schmidt, Raymond Marsile, Elizabeth Marsile, the Misses Gertrude Veeh, Verna Braden, Ruth Boose and Lydia Weick of this city and Orange; Mesdames Viola Anne Allred, Leonard Gresham and Robert Wilm of Long Beach.

Pre-Nuptial Courtesies Continue With Miscellaneous Shower

Most recent in the succession of parties to compliment Miss Marjorie Burns of Laguna Beach since announcement of October 6 as date of her wedding to John Kenneth Savage, was the pretty shower given Wednesday by her grandmother, Mrs. Elmer R. Curtis, 220 South Main street.

Bridge was followed by an exciting interval when Miss Burns opened the gayly wrapped miscellaneous gifts with which she was presented.

In serving the dessert course in late afternoon, Mrs. Curtis was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Alvin Roy Burns of Laguna Beach. Tables were bright with candles, nut cups and other appointments in yellow. Golden gifts and other favors added their decorative effect. "Mother" Elizabeth McLeod, who recently celebrated her 81st birthday was seated at the head of the table, sharing honors with Miss Burns at the opposite end.

Guests included Mesdames Dan Buchheim and W. McDonald, aunts of the honoree, W. O. McLeod, P. G. Belsell, Edward Cochems, Chester Congdon, Mattie Carter, Frank Calkins, Adeline Harrell, Lambert Harris, C. S. Dunphy, U. C. Murphy, Pauline Becker, Nell Jane Green, the Misses Nettie Bell and Melvina Matheny, of Santa Ana; Mesdames Vernon Gray of Glendale, Meredith Savage, Roy Spaeth, Nell Warner, Fay Warner, Los Angeles, Ida Lovegreen of LaVerne, Mildred Sutton and daughter, Miss Valerie Sutton of San Diego; Mrs. Roy Runnels of Tustin, Mrs. Ray Clark, and Mrs. E. Glover of Long Beach.

Miss Burns will be honored again next Thursday at a family dinner party in Los Angeles to be given by Mrs. Marie Savage, mother of her fiancé, and Mesdames Vernon Gray and Meredith Savage, his sister and sister-in-law.

Many Points Visited On Summer Motor Trip

When Miss Iva Carl resumes her teaching duties at Julia Lathrop Junior High school, this month, it will be with memories of an unusually interesting summer vacation trip from which she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Carl, have just returned to their home, 424 1/2 West Pine street.

Leaving over a month ago by automobile, the Santa Anans went to Kansas, stopping en route for visits with numerous relatives and friends. In Denver, Colo., they were entertained by a cousin, Professor H. H. Nimmer, director of the meteorological section of the Museum of Natural History of Denver. Other stops were made in Hutchinson, McPherson and Topeka, Kans., and in Kansas City, Mo.

On returning to California, Mr. and Mrs. Carl and Miss Carl counted as one of the outstanding features of the summer, their visit to Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico where they were deeply impressed by the phenomena afforded by the caverns. They found that they are visited by an average of a thousand persons daily during the summer travel season.

Throughout the trip the Santa Anans saw evidences of the drought, and on their homeward journey they saw the devastating effects of rain floods, especially in New Mexico and Arizona.

Mariposa Brings Two Santa Anans Home Today

Returning from a trip to Australia, New Zealand and other islands, the Misses Nelle Marie Remsburg and Mildred Mansur were expected to arrive this morning on the Mariposa, docking at Wilmington. They were to be met by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Remsburg, 1727 Bush street; and Mrs. Fred Mansur, 120 East Washington avenue, also Miss Katherine Remsburg.

Both Miss Remsburg and Miss Mansur will resume their teaching duties soon, the former at Pasadena Junior college, the latter at Huntington Park High school. They were accompanied on the trip by Miss Edith Eaton of Riverside.

The Santa Anans left here June 28. They enjoyed visiting in Australia, New Zealand, the Fiji Islands and the Hawaiian Islands.

Sequel To Luncheon Is Presentation Of Pretty China

Paying a pretty compliment to Mrs. Frank Morrison (who was Miss Ione Hansen before her June wedding) Miss Ruth Stephenson was hostess at luncheon for a group of intimate friends Thursday in her home, 433 West Santa Clara avenue. The delicious two course menu was served in the blue Mexican glassware which the hostess obtained during her recent trip to New York through the Panama Canal. For her table she used an exquisite lace luncheon set which she had brought from London on a previous voyage.

Coming as a complete surprise to the honoree, who had known of the luncheon, was the presentation of a set of rose point china which will be added to the collection of lovely things she will take to her new home on Van Ness avenue, now rapidly nearing completion.

Although Miss Stephenson had planned other diversion, guests had so many experiences to exchange that the afternoon was spent wholly in conversation.

Those sharing the affair were Mesdames Frank Morrison, Clinton W. Dozier, William Faulkner Jr., Ralph Dozier, Theo. A. Bolte, Mary Georgianna Hunt, Betty Watson, Joseph Fitch, Miss Lillian McDonald and the hostess, Miss Ruth Stephenson.

Easterner Concludes Visit With Warners

Mrs. Park Free of Westport, Pa., Thursday concluded a month's visit in the home of cousins, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Warner and Mrs. Nina J. Staples, 1516 Willis street. She is returning home by way of Seattle, Wash., where she will visit with relatives.

One of the last visits which Mrs. Free made while in the Southland, was to the exposition in San Diego in company with the Warners and Mrs. Staples. Mrs. Staples, who spent part of last winter in the east, was accompanied back to California by Mrs. Free. The latter had been a guest in the Long Island home of Lt. and Mrs. Chauncey Moore, who now live in Honolulu. The Lieutenant's duties keep him aboard the submarine Beaver the greater part of the time as a Diesel engine expert. Mrs. Moore will be remembered as Miss Marjorie Warner, daughter of the E. G. Warners.

Mayor and Mrs. Fred Rowland and daughter, Miss Barbara Rowland, California's Sweetheart and rodeo queen, were among Santa Anans entertained recently in the Moore home on the islands.

Bridge Club Continues Informal Mid-Summer Festivities

In accordance with the custom which they have adopted for their more informal summer sessions, members of the Wednesday Contract Bridge club made Santa Ana Country club their rendezvous this week for a gay luncheon and its subsequent bridge play. Mrs. John I. Clark, a member of the Country club, made arrangements for the pleasant affair. Similar parties at a little distance from the homes where bridge sessions are usually held, have been enjoyed during the summer, in Laguna Beach, Long Beach, and other points offering delightful clubrooms and hotels for entertaining.

Luncheon was served in the solarium to the accompaniment of floral appointments in baby sinias. Later the club members repaired to the card room on the second floor where all was in readiness for the afternoon of play. Several members of the club are out of the city, so there were but two tables. Mrs. Philip Hatzfeld made high score at one, and Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth at the other, meriting the club prizes.

Mrs. Angus J. Cruickshank was a guest sharing the pleasant meeting with Mesdames George Briggs, J. I. Clark, A. G. Flagg, F. E. Farnsworth, Philip Hatzfeld, Park Roper and Earl Morrow. Members were especially happy to welcome Mrs. Morrow, since the illness of her husband, Earl Morrow, has kept her from attending club sessions for the past three months. Mr. Morrow is now showing daily improvement in health.

Surprise Affair Marks Couple's Fiftieth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arce's golden wedding anniversary was celebrated Thursday evening in their home, 723 East Pine street, where Mrs. Rena Brown was hostess at a surprise affair.

Mrs. Steve Nieblas and Mrs. Lee R. Contreras received prizes for holding first and second high honors in cards. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown. Present in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Arce were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Sanchez, Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Arguillo and daughters, Los Angeles; Mrs. Rosa Lopera, Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Nieblas, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Contreras and daughter, Henrietta, El Modena; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bracamontes and son, Philip, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Valverde, and the hostess, Mrs. Brown, Santa Ana. The honored couple received gifts.

Many Trips Planned For Guests From East

Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Farmer and daughters, Erlene and Fern, 1221 South Parton street, are entertaining as houseguests, Mrs. Glenn Green and daughter Genevieve, Detroit, Mich. The Santa Anans and their guests expect to make a week-end trip to Lake Arrowhead. They plan visits to the San Diego exposition and other points during the next two weeks.

Mrs. Farmer and Miss Fern returned recently from a six weeks' stay in Wichita, Kansas City and other midwestern cities. They traveled by Santa Fe train, and returned home by Santa Fe bus. On the homeward trip, they were detained for 40 hours because of floods. Syracuse, Kans. and Raton, N. M. were the cities in which they were forced to spend their extra time until roads were opened for transportation.

THE TINYMITES

When Scouty finished with his ride, he jumped off to the ground and sighed. "Gee, that swell riding made me tired. I guess I'll rest a bit."

"The Duncy said, 'I'll join you, lad. If I can snooze, I will be glad. Let's run to yonder tree, where there's a dandy place to sit.'"

"Go right ahead," a cowboy said. "The rest can go with me, instead. I'm going to fix a dandy lunch. Now, who will lend a hand?"

"I will," said Doty. "Lead the way. For food, I'll work the live-long day. I know that anything we have for lunch will taste just grand."

The Tinies started off and then they all broke forth in laughter when wee Duncy shouted, "Kindly wait for me. I'm hungry, too."

"The nap I planned I'm sure will keep. I'd really rather eat than sleep." "The same thing goes for me," said Scouty. "I will follow you."

In just a very little while a cowboy came forth with a pile of tasty looking sandwiches. "Sail in," he loudly cried.

"Some milk, wee Doty's going to bring. I hope you'll eat up everything." The happy Tinies gathered in a circle, side by side.

Soon Windy said, "My, what a feast. I'm sure that I ate up at least a dozen of the sandwiches. I've had more than my share."

"The rest are also stuffed, no doubt." And then the bunch heard Goldy shout, "Here comes a pig. I'm going to get it. Maybe it won't care."

The funny pig began to snort and, likely, thought it would be

Stories in STAMPS

DESTRUCTION OF A LARGE CITY

WOMEN and children thronged the markets of Managua, capital of Nicaragua, on the morning of March 31, 1931, business was thriving along the main streets, when suddenly a shock rocked the area. It was an earthquake that brought death to 2000 and ruin to almost the entire city.

Eleven shocks, within a period of two or three minutes, then fire, bursting of water mains, and complete devastation of important buildings.

In the center of the city, the new Post Office building, that had been opened seven months before, was a heap of ruins. So Nicaragua issued a series of two stamps, one of which is shown here, showing the Post Office before and after the quake. The proceeds went to rebuilding the postal headquarters.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE PRES-IDENT'S LETTER TO MR. HOWARD

The President's message is the absorbing topic in America today.

Mr. Howard's letter to the President was a full, fair and strong presentation of the criticisms that have been leveled at the administration by many industrial and economic leaders.

The President met it with an apparently candid, friendly and complete presentation of the "other side" of the case. He then added to it all that these necessary remedial laws now had been about completed and the business interests could feel confident that there would be no more in that direction.

We suppose the idea then, is this, that business interests will be able to adjust themselves to the legislation that has been enacted, firm in the belief that they can plan for some period ahead, realizing that no more changes will occur.

The interesting political importance of this perhaps will be found, on further thought and investigation, when it will begin to occur to business men, that if it be true that no serious changes will be effected under President Roosevelt, they had better support him for re-election than any one else who would favor changes and repeals, that would throw us back into further disorder and chaos.

From some viewpoints, it hardly seems possible that we can consider the New Deal legislation completed. Certainly a major part of that New Deal was to correct the serious abuses due to cut-throat competition, which was positively destroying the better and more conscientious men in every industry or else forcing them to the tactics of their competitors.

And this law has been declared "unconstitutional." While there is an attempt to reach some of the same things by certain ventures, the Supreme court has not yet had them before it, and the Supreme court's history does not lend support to the idea that it will permit congress to do by indirection anything it could not do directly.

There is a hope that the Agricultural Adjustment Act has been remedied to save it in the same manner, but this is extremely doubtful. It has been these things which brought about the apparent necessity for an amendment to the Constitution.

This, the President did not meet squarely in his letter. There is a suggestion, in his reply to Mr. Howard, that the increases in taxes, being added burdens upon the stronger and more powerful, aim to adjust some of these things that may have been contemplated in the NRA.

We have been strong supporters of the objective contemplated by NRA legislation. The provisions for minimum hours, minimum wages, for the rights of the wage earner and all the rest, which were embodied in the NRA, we believe to be fair and wise, and by making these provisions, each operator knew that the other operator had to conform to these provisions of law and he could govern himself accordingly.

Frankly, we do not believe that the method to achieve these things is by taxing, in the higher brackets, for the same types of taxation, larger than you do in the smaller. In all of the other provisions, there is room for the use of brains, without penalty.

But the penalization of brains, through this tax method, in our judgment, is not justifiable. It might be justifiable, not from that point of view at all, but from the point of view of raising the needed income, provided it would accomplish this purpose.

But neither the inheritance tax nor the increased income tax will make any serious effort in that direction.

Undoubtedly business throughout the country, that is, "big" business, has been encouraged to believe that it can carry on pretty much as it has been doing, with the promise of the President in this letter.

This was reflected, after contemplation of a few hours, in the increased price of stocks in Wall Street.

The progressives or the radicals, however, throughout the country, were expecting the President to go farther, particularly in his meeting the problem of the unemployed and undoubtedly this letter to Mr. Howard will come as a keen disappointment to that group.

But the President has kept strictly to his original purpose, to preserve the present order, remedy the evils as best he can, but to carry on. He points to returning confidence, increasing evidences of prosperity and he can point to increased profits, in most of the institutions, to justify his attitude.

GIFT SEASON FOR WEALTHY

Million dollar gifts are being made almost daily by some wealthy individual, in an effort to beat the January 1 deadline, when higher taxes must be paid.

Each report of the Securities Exchange commission reveals the fact that huge blocks of stock have been transferred. In stocks registered on the New York exchange alone, the value of gifts made since June 10th exceeded $340,000,000 before the close of July.

Before the depression, federal revenue from gift taxes was insignificant, the treasury not even bothering to list it separately. But in 1933, the taxes on gifts exceeded nine million dollars and the rate varied from one per cent on amounts over $60,000 to 33 1-3 per cent on amounts over ten million dollars.

This new-found source of revenue looked so good to the government that the revenue act of 1934 increased the rates and tax receipts from this source jumped from nine million to 72 million dollars.

When still higher taxes were proposed in June of this year, the wealthy lost no time in passing their wealth on to their friends and relatives.

The new tax law is the first of the income and estate tax measures that is not retroactive. Other federal revenue measures, though passed in mid-year, were made to apply as of the preceding January 1st.

The definite knowledge that taxes will be higher next year is giving business and private individuals an opportunity to prepare for the change.

Avoiding taxes, on any pretext or excuse, is as old as organized society and our courts quite generally recognize the fact that it is perfectly legitimate and proper for any person to avoid taxes, if he can legally do so. To dodge or delay the payment of taxes, where possible, has the universal blessing of all taxpayers.

LAST OF WAR BONDS CALLED

The last of the government war bonds will be retired on October 15th and converted into other bonds of a distinctly lower interest rate.

It has taken just 16 years to refinance these bonds and it is interesting to note that the war loans of the Civil war were refinanced in exactly the same time.

The first "Victory" loan bonds to be converted carried 3 3/4 and 4 3/4 per cent and were refinanced in 1922 at no saving in interest charges.

The second 4 1/2 per cent bonds converted in 1928 likewise bore 3 1/2 per cent, but by the spring of 1935, interest rates had fallen to 2 3/4 per cent, with five year treasury notes carrying only 1 3/4 per cent. And the new bonds, to be sold next month, will carry only 2 3/4 per cent, with treasury notes bearing only 1 1/2 per cent.

It can be seen at a glance that the investing public is far from losing its faith in the government. As business recovers, however, and money can earn a greater rate of interest elsewhere, the government will also have to pay a higher rate of interest.

The average interest rate, on all government bonds outstanding, is now about three per cent, while in 1921 it was 4.4 per cent.

Even though the total indebtedness of this country has been greatly increased since 1932, annual interest payments are less than in 1932, when the government debt was six billion dollars lower.

The Glass Heart

New York Times

Last June Dr. Alexis Carrel created a mild sensation by announcing his success in keeping organs alive for twenty-four days in a glass "body" by a mechanical circulatory system. The inventor of this pulsing heart and lung was none other than Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Now comes The Journal of Experimental Medicine with an article in which the Colonel describes his contribution to physiological research in the greatest detail.

From the fact that Soviet experimenters of the Alexander Bogdanov Institute have made the severed head of a dog wink and even swallow, and researchers in other institutions have kept whole organs alive outside of the body, it is obvious that artificial hearts are neither new nor unsuccessful. Indeed, an engineer would say that Colonel Lindbergh's design reveals familiar principles. That is true of every invention. Even such revolutionary contrivances as the airplane and wireless were not new in all their parts. It was the assemblage of tried devices that was new. And so it is with this mechanism of Colonel Lindbergh's. Moreover, it must be judged by the severe requirements that had to be met. To pump blood through a kidney or a spleen either in a steady stream or in realistic pulses and to prevent that blood from being contaminated by the bacteria-laden outer air or by rubber, cement or metal and at the same time secure simplicity was no mean task. Small wonder, then, that Colonel Lindbergh has received high praise from so exacting an experimenter as Dr. Carrel.

The physician has always struggled against the enormous disadvantage of studying organs of the body. An engineer can pick a machine apart and see at a glance why it ceased to function. Sometimes he even inserts windows in engines to determine causes and effects of obscure phenomena. But the physician can only infer. Even the X-rays have their limitations. They yield only shadows. Thus mechanically interpreted, the advance made by Dr. Carrel and Colonel Lindbergh is striking. It becomes possible to study an organ in glass, virtually under the conditions that obtain in the body. At last the physician can determine what sometimes happens to kidneys, hearts and livers when they are attacked by disease and how they respond to hormones, stimulants and various chemicals. It may even be possible to dispense with much tedious experimentation on animals, since no risk to human life is involved in testing a new compound on an organ in a glass breast. Surmising gives way to a certainty, and medicine is placed on the path that leads to exact science.

Vigilanteism Does Not Mix With Backing Constitution

San Francisco Chronicle

If anybody is to condone vigilante violence, it should certainly not be those who are flinging the Constitution against the New Deal. They who appeal to the Constitution must not be joined to its violators.

Least of all will they aid their campaign against either the insidious subversion of New Deal unconstitutionality or the open violence of communism by themselves adopting the worst methods of communism, and defending them by its worst arguments.

The argument of the Communists is that, since their objectives can not be obtained quickly enough by legal methods, they must be sought by illegal ones. Also that, since this is a "class war," the Golden Rule does not apply, and what is right if done by their side, against property, is wrong if done by the other side, in favor of property.

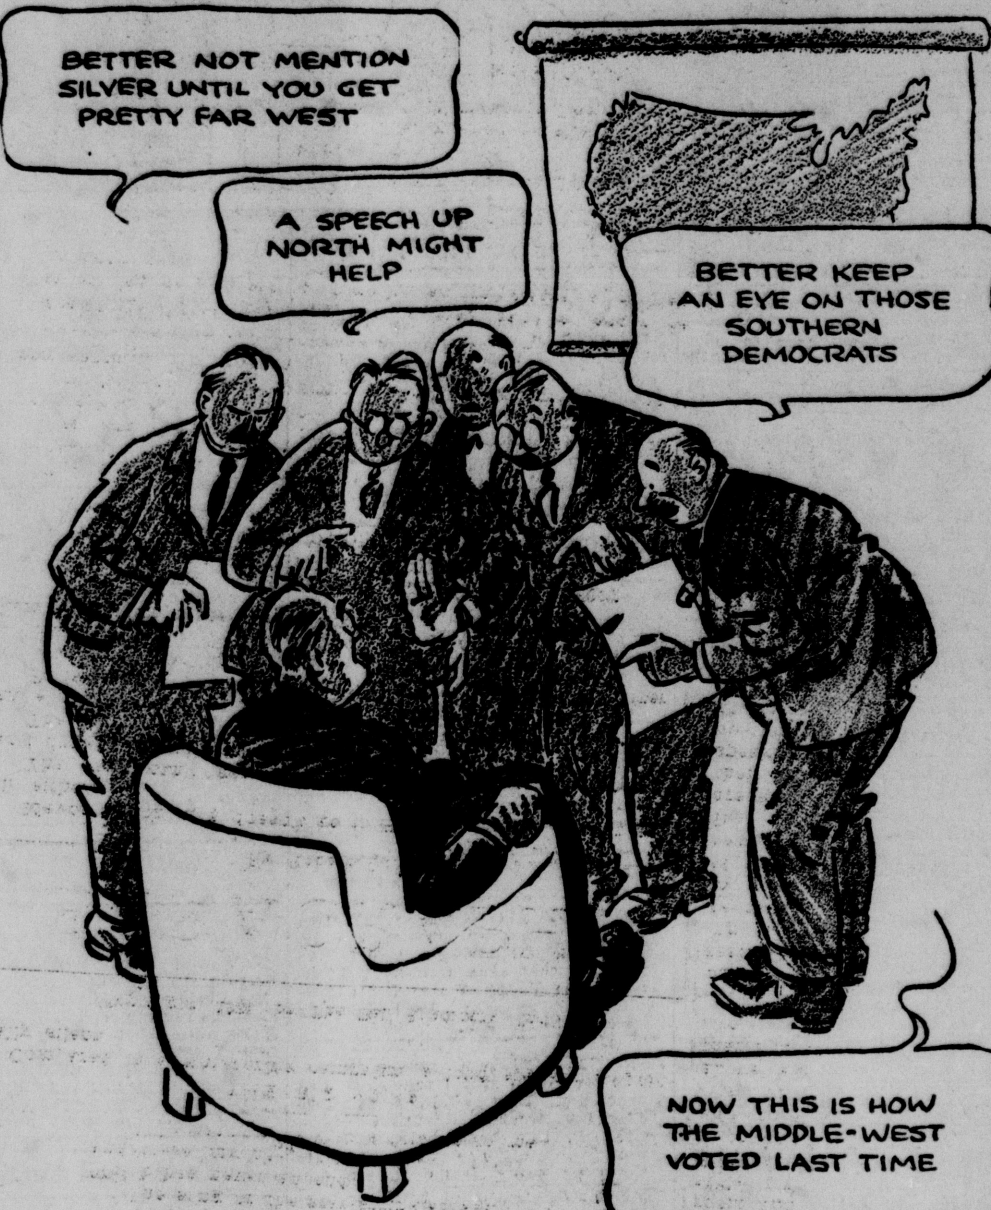

This is communism at its worst. Its practices are dangerous and its doctrine is pernicious. Only on the assumption of the "class war" and the consequent applicability of the ethics of war, is it even communistically consistent. And this fundamental fallacy of the class war is the worst of the wrongs of communism. It is the one which capitalism most emphatically rejects.

And yet this is an exact description of the acts and arguments of the vigilante raiders. If the fact that they use them on the side of property prevents them from being communists, it is only because it makes them fascists—which is the other face of the same thing. Both are equally and identically contrary to the Constitution of the United States.

Communists, who do not believe in the Constitution or propose to abide by it, are at least consistent in that they are also wrong—in violation of it. So also are fascists, if they are equally and identically contrary to the Constitution.

It is not the Constitution, but the Constitution as Lee P. will keep silent, on one side, and the other.

LINES TO A TAX COLLECTOR

I possess a few assets, old fellow,
That you'll never set down in your book—
The lilies in June,
The round, harvest moon
And the song of the whispering brook;
The chatter of wrens in the garden,
The scent of the opening rose;
The murmur of bees
In the dew-sprinkled trees—
You can't put a tax upon those.

You can't put a tax on the starlight,
Nor the clouds that sail hurrying by;
Nor the low booming roar
Of the sea near the shore
Nor the sun as it sinks down the sky.
The hues of the maples in autumn
As they rise through the soft morning mist
Forever shall be
For poor people like me,
You will never get them on your list.

Cast your eyes on my worldly possessions,
Take whatever you find that I owe,
Then send in your bill,
But mine will be still
The twilight's last lingering glow,
The murmur of pines by the river,
The song of the star-sprinkled sea,
Which has never an end;
And these, my dear friend,
Will mean more than a fortune to me.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE RELIGION OF THE STATE

The world around mankind tends today to embrace a new religion of the state.

The Church was to medieval times what the State tends to be to modern times.

Everything was swept within the orbit of the Mediaeval Church as everything is being swept into the orbit of the Modern State.

Not until the universal jurisdiction of the Church was challenged and broken down did the State in its modern national sense come into the picture. And now, as mediaeval man looked to mediaeval church for salvation in the world to come, modern man looks to modern state for salvation in the world that now is.

Under the super-emotionalism of some European dictators, the modern state is claiming divine origin, but even where, as with us, this extreme is not claimed, the growing worship of the state grows.

Entirely aside from whether we agree or disagree with the theological notions of the Mediaeval Church, it may be questioned whether, as a form of human association, the Modern State is a vast improvement.

Everett Dean Martin, in a series of lectures at Brown university some four years ago, described the modern state in terms of a church as follows:

Its creed is the teachings of Rousseau.

Its priesthood is the professional politician.

Its acolyte is the policeman.

Its offering is the income tax.

Its litany is the party campaign.

Its communion is the exercise of the vote.

Its sacrament is the baptism of war.

Its heaven is business prosperity passed around.

Its Hell is the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Its God is the Masses.

Here is one religion that merits skepticism!

ACCEPTANCE OF LIFE

A certain acceptance of life is healthy for all of us. The man who gets into a temper because it is raining, the woman who rages because the water is turned off on the very day she had set for canning the corn, waste precious time and energy that might better go into something worth while. There is no sense in fretting about things that cannot be helped.

Another wasteful habit we indulge in is fussing because we have to do something we hate to do, like rising in the morning and brushing our teeth, or going to a funeral, or peeling the potatoes. These things have to be done and we may as well be cheerful about doing them. Making a fuss, grinding the teeth and stamping the feet never prevents the final doing. After trying ourselves out in nervous irritation we do the distasteful thing. If we had accepted it in the first place we would have saved energy and done a much better job and been happier.

Children are undisciplined creatures, and they dislike doing many things they must do. They hate to wash their hands, hate to go to bed, hate to go to the store, hate to do lessons. In short, they dislike doing anything that puts a restraint upon them or that is not their pleasure. Just as grown-ups do. They must be disciplined to accept life's duties, its unexpectedness, its burdens. The sooner the better.

When a little child says he does not want to wash his hands and go to lunch don't be impatient about it. Take it calmly and tell him: "Nobody does. I don't myself, but I must. Everybody must. Come along fast, there's cream custard for dessert."

Show him a good example by accepting his fustings as a matter of course, accepting the interruptions of lunch and a fussy child with unruffled calm, and he will soon learn to take things as they come. It won't hurt a child to learn early that there are many disagreeable duties in the day's routine and he must accept them cheerfully and attend to them without using time and energy that might be better spent in his play.

Fix a time for these duties and try to have the child attend to them on schedule. I know a little boy who had just one chore—getting into a basket of chips for the kitchen fire in the morning. He was supposed to do this right after breakfast, and so be free for the day. But nobody made him attend to his job. If it was mentioned as he left the breakfast table he would say, "Oh, I have lots of time." But as the hours passed he began fretting about that job, protesting that he didn't want to do it, that somebody else ought to do it, that he had a pain in his foot or his head or his hand, until the whole household was upset about the basket of chips. When his mother made him get it in immediately after he had eaten his breakfast he took on pounds of weight and the family knew peace.

Teach children to accept their duties as a matter of course and they will be healthier and happier.
